

In re Watt, Case No. 14-31295

10/14/14

TMB

Pub

P14-5(10)

Debtors proposed a Chapter 13 plan which provided for surrender of real property and provided that, upon confirmation, title to the property would vest in the senior lien holder. The plan specifically provided that the Debtors were not seeking to alter the extent, priority or validity of existing liens against the property, thereby preserving the senior lien holder's ability to complete a foreclosure post confirmation.

The senior lien holder had sought relief from stay prior to the confirmation hearing to allow it to foreclose on the property, but would not commit to a time line for a foreclosure proceeding. It objected to confirmation of the proposed plan, contending that the court lacked the authority to compel it to accept title to the property.

The court disagreed. It noted that under section 1322(b)(2) a plan may provide "for the vesting of property of the estate, upon confirmation of the plan or at a later time, in the debtor, or in any other entity." The court cited with approval to In re Rosa, 495 B.R. 522 (Bankr. D. Haw. 2013) in which the court allowed confirmation of a plan which provided that, upon confirmation, title to the debtor's real property would vest in the senior lien holder. However, the court disagreed with the Rosa court's conclusion that vesting in a third party under section 1322(b)(9) required the consent of that party.

The court noted that nothing in the language of section 1322(b)(9) required that the debtor obtain a third party's consent as a condition to obtaining confirmation of a plan which provided for vesting of property in that party. Relying on rules of statutory construction, it declined to read restrictive language into section 1322(b)(9) where none existed.

Accordingly, the court confirmed the debtors' plan over the objection of the senior lien holder. However, the court noted that confirmation could be denied on bad faith grounds if a debtor sought to use the vesting provision of section 1322(b)(9) in an effort to avoid liability for nuisance or environmental issues associated with the property.

UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
FOR THE DISTRICT OF OREGON

In re ) Case No. 14-31295-tmb13 NICHOLAS LEE WATT and )
PATRICIA MOUDY WATT, ) MEMORANDUM OPINION Debtor(s). )

This matter came before the court on August 28, 2014, for evidentiary hearings on Debtor’s amended Chapter 13 Plan dated June 26, 2014, and a Motion for Relief from Stay (hereinafter “Motion for Relief”) filed by the Bank of New York Mellon, fka The Bank of New York, as Trustee on behalf of the Holders of the Alternative Loan Trust 20-6-OA21, Mortgage Pass Through Certificates Series 2006-OA21 (“BONY Mellon”). Debtors were represented by Michael O’Brien. The Chapter 13 Trustee, Wayne Godare, was represented by Jordan Hantman. BONY Mellon was represented by Oren B. Haker. Meritage Homeowner’s Association (“Meritage”) was represented by Britta E. Warren.

In reaching my decision, I carefully reviewed the motions, documents in support thereof and opposition thereto, the pleadings, and other submissions in the file. I also read applicable legal authorities, both as cited to me and as located through my own research. I considered carefully the oral arguments presented and read counsels’ submissions in detail. The following findings of fact and legal conclusions

1 constitute the court's findings under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure (“FRCP”) 52(a)<sup>1</sup>, applicable in this
2 proceeding under Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (“FRBP”) 9014 and 7052. To the extent any 3 findings of fact constitute conclusions of law, they are adopted as such. To the extent that any of the 4 conclusions of law constitute findings of fact, they are adopted as such.

5 Debtors filed a voluntary Chapter 13 petition on March 12, 2014. At the time of filing, the Debtors
6 owned real property located at 56 B NW 33rd Place in Newport, Oregon (“Property”). The Property is 7 located in a planned community and is subject to assessments issued by Meritage. Debtors’ schedules show,
8 at the time of filing, Meritage held a judgment lien against the Property in the amount of $179,733.00. Select 9 Portfolio was scheduled as the servicer for the first mortgage holder on the Property.

10 Debtors’ initial Chapter 13 plan dated March 26, 2014, (the “Initial Plan”) provided for surrender of 11 the Property. However, paragraph 12 of the Initial Plan further provided that Debtors would sell the 12 Property and that:

13 “Any claim of the Meritage Homeowners Association for post-petition assessments shall be 14 satisfied in whole or in part through the Section 363 sale process and shall be primed to the 15 first position lien only to the extent Meritage has satisfied the requirements of ORS 100.450.
16 The Debtors will not make post-petition assessment payments to Meritage and their obligation to make such payments shall be terminated upon entry of an Order Confirming Plan subject only to further order of the Court pursuant to Fed. Rule Civ. Proc. 60(b)(3).” (Initial Plan at 4).

17 Meritage objected to confirmation of the Initial Plan on April 22, 2014, on the grounds that the Debtors were 18 using paragraph 12 to discharge non-dischargeable post-petition obligations incident to the ownership of the 19 Property.

20 Debtors’ first amended plan (“First Amended Plan”) was filed on April 23, 2014. Paragraph 12 of 21 the First Amended Plan was identical to paragraph 12 of the Initial Plan and Meritage objected to its 22 confirmation on the same grounds raised in its objection to the Initial Plan.

23 On June 17, 2014, while confirmation of Debtors’ First Amended Plan was pending, BONY Mellon 24

25 <sup>1</sup> Unless otherwise indicated, all chapter, section and rule references are to the Bankruptcy Code, 11
26 U.S.C. §§ 101-1532, and to the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, Rules 1001-9037. The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure are referred to as Civil Rules.

1 filed its Motion for Relief seeking an order granting relief and providing that its “claim will no longer be 2 treated pursuant to 1322(b)(5); and thus, Fed. Rule Bank. P. 3002.1 shall no longer apply in the instant case.”
3 (Mot. for Relief at 3).

4 On June 30, 2014, Debtors filed a second amended plan dated June 26, 2014 (“Second Amended
5 Plan”). The Second Amended Plan did not provide for sale of the Property or address post petition
6 homeowner’s association assessments. Rather, the Second Amended Plan provided, in paragraph 10:

7 “Upon entry of an Order Confirming this Chapter 13 Plan, the property at 56 B NW 33rd
8 Place in Newport, Oregon shall be vested in The Bank of New York Mellon fka The Bank of 9 New York, as trustee for the Certificateholders of the CWALT, Inc., Alternative Loan Trust
10 2006-OA21, Mortgage Pass-Through Certificates, Series 2006- OA21, its successors, 11 transferees or assigns pursuant to 11 USC 1322(b)(9). This vesting shall include all of 12 Debtors [sic] legal and equitable rights. This vesting shall not merge or otherwise affect the 13 extent, validity, or priority of any liens on the property. Creditors potentially affected by this 14 paragraph include: The Bank of New York Mellon aka Select Portfolio Servicing, the Bank of 15 America, Lincoln County Tax Assessor and Meritage Homeowners Association.” (Second 16 Am. Plan at 5).

13 Although not specified in paragraph 2(b)(5) of the Second Amended Plan, it is clear that Debtors also 14 intended to surrender the Property to BONY Mellon from Debtors’ pleadings and counsel’s argument.

15 On June 30, 2014, Debtors filed a response to BONY Mellon’s Motion for Relief stating: “Amended
16 Plan filed by Debtors seeks to vest title to the property in the name of Movant pursuant to 11 USC
17 1322(b)(9). [Debtors are] willing to execute such documents as are necessary and requested by Movant to 18 perform such vesting.” (Debtors’ Resp. to Mot. for Relief at 2). Debtors argued that “[u]nless Movant 19 consents to such treatment, [r]elief from stay should not be granted until that issue has been ruled upon.” Id.

20 On July 1, 2014, Meritage filed a response to BONY Mellon’s Motion for Relief asking that “relief from stay
21 be denied until issues related to vesting title, and the resulting liability for obligations under the CCRs and 22 By-Laws, can be resolved through confirmation of the Second Amended Chapter 13 Plan.” (Meritage’s 23 Resp. to Mot. for Relief at 4).

24 On July 31, 2014, BONY Mellon filed an objection to confirmation of Debtors’ Second Amended 25 Plan objecting to the vesting provision of paragraph 10. It contended that the court lacked the authority to 26 compel it to accept title to the Property.

1 On September 5, 2014, following the evidentiary hearing on these matters, the court entered an order
2 granting BONY Mellon's Motion for Relief.

3 Debtors do not seek a ruling from the court regarding the relative priority or extent of the liens
4 against the Property. The creditors affected by paragraph 10 of the Second Amended Plan include: (1)
5 BONY-Mellon, (2) Bank of America, NA, (3) Lincoln County, Oregon Tax Assessor, and (4) Meritage.
6 Debtors' counsel has received affirmative consent to this plan treatment from Lincoln County Tax Assessor
7 and Meritage. No objection to the Second Amended Plan has been filed by Bank of America NA. BONY
8 Mellon has the sole remaining objection.

9 STIPULATED FACTS

10 The Debtors, BONY Mellon, and Meritage stipulated to many facts regarding the filing of the case, 11 the relative priority of the liens on the Property, and the continuing obligations owing to BONY Mellon and 12 Meritage. The parties also agreed that the value of the Property does not exceed the value of the liens and 13 there is no equity for the bankruptcy estate. (J. Stip. Facts)

14 LEGAL ANALYSIS

15 1. Burden of Proof.

16 "The Debtors have the burden of proof on each element of confirmation by a preponderance of the 17 evidence." In re Lavilla, 425 B.R. 572, 576 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 2010)(citations omitted).

18 2. Post-Petition Meritage HOA Assessments.

19 I previously held in an unrelated case, In re Anderson, Case No. 12-37458-tmb13, that:

20 "[U]nder Oregon law a homeowner's duty to pay HOA assessment is not based on a 21 prepetition contractual right, but rather is based on ownership of the property subject to the 22 assessment. Accordingly, the debtor is obligated to pay those [post-petition] assessments for so long as she retains an ownership interest in the Property. In re Anderson, No. 12-37458-tmb13, Hr'g Tr. 23-14, May 16, 2013.

23 3. Surrender and Ownership.

24 11 U.S.C. § 1325(a)(5)(C) provides that with respect to a secured claim, a plan may, among other
25 things, surrender the property securing the claim to the holder of the claim. Here, the Debtors have vacated 26 the Property and made it available to BONY Mellon. However, surrender merely establishes the Debtor will

1 not oppose the transfer of the collateral. Absent some further action, such as foreclosure, deed in lieu of 2 foreclosure or short sale of the property, surrender does not divest a debtor of ownership and its obligations.
3 See In re Spencer, 457 B.R. 601 (E.D. Mich. 2011) and In re Anderson, No. 12-37458-tmb13, Hr'g Tr. 23-4 24.

5 The court is aware that, in this post-2007 world, debtors may find themselves in a position where 6 lenders are reluctant to foreclose on their collateral, particularly where foreclosure would obligate the lender
7 to pay homeowner association assessments that run with the property. As the court noted in Pigg v. BAC
8 Home Loans Servicing LP (In re Pigg), 453 B.R. 728 (Bankr. M.D. Tenn. 2011)

9 “Congress’ broadening of section 523(a)(16), no doubt the result of some special interest
10 lobbying, could not have foreseen the world and the United States financial crisis that crashed
11 Wall Street, sunk the real estate market, and affected, to some degree, almost every American.
12 With the real estate collapse, lenders who might otherwise have the right to do so, are choosing
13 not to foreclose on their collateral leaving homeowners in limbo. In the case of a chapter 7 14 debtor who has surrendered her home in bankruptcy and been relieved of any personal liability 15 on the mortgage, she cannot truly be given a fresh start because HOA fees are still 16 accumulating until a lender chooses to foreclose. If the lender never forecloses, that 17 homeowner’s liability for the HOA fees continues in perpetuity.” Pigg, 453 B.R. at 733.<sup>2</sup>

18 As in the Pigg case, the Debtors here are in limbo – surrender alone does not divest them of 19 ownership. BONY Mellon will not accept a deed in lieu of foreclosure nor commit to foreclose even though 20 it has relief from stay to do so. So long as the Debtors retain an ownership interest they remain liable for 21 post-petition HOA assessments against the property. It is for this reason that Debtors seek confirmation of a 22 plan which divests them of their interest in the Property.

23 <sup>2</sup> Unlike Oregon, several states accord super-priority status to HOA liens for common expenses
24 which would have come due, in the absence of acceleration, during a set period of time prior to foreclosure.
25 In some states, the super-priority is afforded only if the HOA forecloses its lien. See Nev. Rev. Stat 26 116.3116 (9 months), R.I. Gen. Laws § 34-36.1-3.16 (6 months), D.C. Code § 42-1903.13 (6 months), and Mass .Gen. Laws Ch. 183A (6 months). Other states afford super-priority to HOA assessments regardless of whether the HOA forecloses or a senior lien holder forecloses. See Colo. Rev. Stat. § 38.33.3-316 (6 months), and Conn. Gen. Stat. Ann. § 47-258 (9 months)

1 4. Vesting Property Upon Confirmation.

2 Debtors argue that the plan provision vesting title to the Property in BONY Mellon is authorized by 3 § 1322(b)(9) which states that a plan may “provide for the vesting of property of the estate, on confirmation
4 of the plan or at a later time, in the debtor or in any other entity.” (Emphasis added). BONY Mellon
5 disagrees. It concedes that § 1322(b)(9) does provide for vesting of property, upon confirmation, in a third 6 party, but contends that such vesting may only occur with consent of the third party.

7 The parties cited two Chapter 13 cases in which debtors sought to compel a secured party to take title
8 to property surrendered in a bankruptcy proceeding. In In re Rosa, 495 B.R. 522 (Bankr. D. Haw. 2013), the 9 debtor proposed a plan which provided for surrender of her real property and that title to the Property would 10 vest in the secured lender upon confirmation. The lender did not object to the plan. However, the chapter 13
11 trustee did so, arguing that the plan provision vesting title in the secured lender was improper. The debtor
12 disagreed, arguing that the vesting provision of the plan was authorized by § 1322(b)(9). The bankruptcy 13 court agreed with the debtor, stating:

14 “It is true that ‘surrender’ does not transfer title to the property. But Congress spoke of 15 ‘vesting’ not ‘surrender,’ in section 1322(b)(9). Under familiar rules of statutory 16 interpretation, courts presume that, when Congress uses different words, it means different 17 things. The plain meaning of ‘vesting’ includes a present transfer of ownership. Thus, 18 section 1322(b)(9) permits inclusion of [the vesting provision].” Id. at 524.

19 However, the court concluded that a debtor’s rights under § 1322(b)(9) were constrained by the 20 requirements of § 1325(a)(5) regarding treatment of secured claims. Under this section, a plan may be 21 confirmed only if, “with respect to each allowed secured claim provided for by the plan,” the holder has 22 accepted the plan, the debtor’s payments to the creditor comply with certain standards and the creditor
23 retains its lien, or the debtor surrenders the property securing the claim to the secured lender. 11 U.S.C. §
24 1325(a). In addressing the requirements of § 1325(a)(5), the court held:

25 “The second permitted treatment—sometimes called ‘cramdown’—does not apply to this 26 plan. The third standard—surrender—does not fully validate this plan, because the debtor
27 proposes vesting in addition to surrender. Therefore, the plan is confirmable only if the first 28 standard—acceptance—is met.” Id. at 524.

The lender in Rosa had not affirmatively accepted the plan. However, it had received adequate notice

1 of the plan and failed to object to its confirmation. Id. at 524-525. The court, citing Andrews v. Loheit (In re
2 Andrews), 49 F.3d 1404 (9th Cir. 1995) held that the secured creditor’s failure to object constituted
3 acceptance of the plan. Accordingly, the judge confirmed the plan over the trustee’s objection. In re Rose,
4 512 B.R. 790 (Bankr. W.D.N.C. 2014) also addressed debtors’ efforts to divest themselves of ownership of 5 surrendered property, albeit not through the process of plan confirmation. In Rose, the chapter 13 debtors
6 sought permission via motion to “quitclaim” their residence to the secured lender, the SBA, without its 7 consent. Rose, 512 at 792. The Roses’ plan had provided for surrender of their residence to the SBA and 8 relief from stay for it to foreclose. More than a year had passed since the chapter 13 plan had been 9 confirmed and the SBA had neither foreclosed nor assumed control of the property. Id. at 793.

10 The Rose court denied the debtors’ request to quitclaim the property to the SBA without its consent, 11 stating “[a]s long as the secured creditor’s actions do not ‘constitute a subterfuge intended to coerce payment 12 of a discharged debt,’ the ‘secured creditor ... has the prerogative to decide whether to accept or reject the 13 surrendered collateral.’” Id. at 794 (citations omitted). While the court noted that at least two unpublished
14 decisions in the Eastern District of North Carolina had “permitted Chapter 13 debtors to surrender property 15 by quitclaim deed to a mortgage lender absent consent”, they did “not identify a legal basis for their 16 holdings” and were “of limited precedential value.” Id.

17 Although the debtors in Rose had not sought to divest themselves of title to the surrendered property
18 via an amended plan, the court nonetheless addressed the availability of that alternative. The Rose court
19 noted the Rosa court’s holding, but declined to adopt its interpretation of § 1322(b)(9). Rather, it concluded 20 that a secured lender could not be compelled to accept title without its consent as “taking title by deed could 21 impair a lender’s rights in the collateral, subject it to ownership liabilities that it never would have 22 voluntarily assumed and contravene state property law.”

23 I respectfully disagree with both the Rose and the Rosa courts. Section 1322(b)(9) provides that the plan
24 may “provide for vesting of the property of the estate on confirmation of a plan or at a later time in the debtor
25 or in any other entity.” (Emphasis added). “‘It is an important rule of statutory construction that every word and 26 clause in a statute be given effect.’ United States v. Williams, 659 F3d. 1223, 1227-28 (9th Cir. 2011) cert

1 denied, Williams v U.S. ____ U.S. ____, 132 S.Ct. 1951 (2012), (citing Hibbs v. Winn, 524 U.S. 88, 101, 124
2 S.Ct. 2276, 159 L. Ed. 2nd 172 (2004)(‘A statute should be construed so that effect is given to all its provisions,
3 so that no part will be inoperative or superfluous, or void or insignificant.’) U.S. v Joseph, 716 F.3d 1273,1278
4 (9th Cir. 2013). Moreover, “[u]nder standard rules of statutory construction, we will not read into the statute a
5 limitation that is not there.” McDaniel v. Wells Fargo Investments, LLC, 717 F.3d 668, 677 (9th Cir. 2013)
6 (citations omitted).

7 The Rosa and Rose courts both took the position that § 1322(b)(9) could not be used to compel a lender
8 to accept title to its collateral without its consent. However, nothing in the language of § 1322(b)(9) requires
9 such consent. In the absence of such language, I find that a plan which provides for vesting of property in a 10 secured lender at time of confirmation may be confirmed over the lender’s objection. However, such a plan must 11 still comply with the provisions of section 1325(a)(5) with respect to payment of secured claims.

12 As noted, § 1325(a)(5) provides that, to be confirmable, a plan must either be 1) accepted by a holder of 13 a secured claim, 2) provide for retention of the lender’s lien and payments that meet the standards set forth in 14 that section, or 3) surrender of the property. “These requirements are stated in the disjunctive, so the plan need
15 only satisfy one of the three tests” to be confirmable. Rosa at 524. In Rosa, the court held that “the third 16 standard - surrender- [did] not fully validate [the debtor’s] plan, because the debtor propose[d] vesting in addition 17 to surrender.” Id. However, he failed to explain why the act of vesting eliminated surrender as a proper
18 treatment of a secured claim. Nor do I see any reason why it would do so. See In re Gerardi, No. 1:10-bk-19028
19 (Bankr. D. Mass, July 24, 2014) (court overruled secured creditor’s objection to a plan which provided that title 20 to creditor’s collateral would vest in it upon confirmation of the plan) and R.D. Moradi, Dealing with Mortgage
21 Owners Who Won’t Foreclose — A Possible Bankruptcy Option, Central District Insider, California Bankruptcy
22 Court News, (August 5, 2014), <http://centraldistrictinsider.com/2014/08/05> (The Rosa “court’s decision . . . is 23 not supported by the plain language of § 1325(a)(5), which deals only with the treatment of a secured creditors
24 claim. The vesting provision under § 1322(b)(9) dealt with the property and should not have had any effect on 25 whether the plan was confirmable with respect to the holder’s secured claim by providing for surrender under 26 § 1325(a)(5)(c)).”

1 Section § 1322(b)(9) permits confirmation of a plan which provides for vesting of property in a third
2 party, such as a lien holder, without that party's consent. However, under § 1325(a)(3), the court may not
3 confirm a plan unless it is proposed in good faith. Accordingly, confirmation could be denied if a debtor
4 attempts to use § 1322(b)(9) to transfer property to a third party in order to relieve him or herself of 5 responsibility for nuisance or environmental problems associated with it. In this case, there are no such concerns.

6 BONY Mellon resists taking title and surrender but yet seeks relief from the automatic stay to 7 foreclose at an undeterminative date with no commitment to moving forward. BONY Mellon did not offer to 8 waive its security and be treated as an unsecured creditor. It reminds me of the old adage of the dog in the 9 manger. The dog cannot eat the hay but refuses to let the horse or the cow eat it either. BONY Mellon 10 would rather sit on the hay. This creates a stalemate.

11 This hurts more than the Debtors who have ongoing HOA obligations they cannot afford and 12 Meritage. It affects all the homeowners in Meritage. Under Oregon law:

13 “94.723 Common expenses; liability of first mortgagee. If a first mortgagee acquires a lot 14 in a planned community by foreclosure or deed in lieu of foreclosure, the mortgagee and 15 subsequent purchaser shall not be liable for any of the common expenses chargeable to the lot 16 which become due before the mortgagee or purchaser acquired title to the lot. The unpaid expense shall be come a common expense of all lot owners including the mortgagee or purchaser.” (Emphasis added)

17 Thus, all unpaid assessments prior to BONY Mellon either foreclosing or acquiring title by some other 18 means, are paid by all the other homeowners. Of course, lenders, including understandably, BONY Mellon,
19 want to delay taking title to the Property for as long as possible. In the meantime, assessments continue to be 20 unpaid. Certainly, the assessments are ongoing obligations of the Debtors, however, they cannot afford to 21 pay them, leaving the other homeowners in Meritage to absorb those assessments.<sup>3</sup> Under the Second
22 Amended Plan and ORS 94.723, BONY Mellon starts with a clean slate. If BONY Mellon acts promptly, it
23 can sell the Property and incur little in the way of HOA assessments. Alternatively, it could work with 24 Meritage on a rental agreement for the Property which would provide for payment of the obligations owed to

26 <sup>3</sup> The Debtors' schedules reveal that the majority of their household income is from retirement accounts, which would be exempt from execution if Meritage did seek to recover post-petition assessments.

1 both, a win-win situation.

2 I also note that the Debtors carefully drafted paragraph 10 to make sure that Debtors were not altering
3 the extent, priority, or validity of existing liens. This non merger language is important to preserve BONY
4 Mellon's ability to complete a foreclosure post confirmation.

5 CONCLUSION

6 I see no prohibitions to allowing the Debtors to both surrender the Property and vest it in BONY
7 Mellon. Nor is there any indication that Debtors plan was filed in bad faith. Accordingly, I will confirm the 8 Second Amended Plan over the objection of BONY Mellon. However, the Order Confirming Plan should 9 amend the plan by interlineation to make clear that the Debtors are surrendering the Property and that entry
10 of the Order has no effect on the relative priority or extent of the liens against the Property. Mr. O'Brien 11 should submit an order confirming plan consistent with this ruling within 14 days.
